

"Broken Hearted"

Music By : Factory Seconds Band & Alex Revard

Lyrics By : David Robert Moore & Jose' Lopez III

Someone's breakin' your heart this morning
Someone's usin' their last goodbye
Someone's taking advantage of
The tears that are in your eyes

In every life there are trials and struggles
In every life there will be some pain
In every life there's a time that we must Make a choice or remain the same

There's always room for the broken hearted
There's a place that can heal your soul
For the empty space inside you
From the hands that can make you whole
That can make you whole

You can't go on feeling sad and lonely
Why should you have to live this way?
There's a choice that can end this trial
Give you hope for a brand new day

There's always room for the broken hearted
There's a place that can heal your soul
For the empty space inside you
From the hands that can make you whole
That can make you whole
There's always room for the broken hearted
There's a place that can heal your soul
For the empty space inside you
From the hands that can make you whole

There's always room for the broken hearted
There's a place that can heal your soul
For the empty space inside you
From the hands that can make you whole
He can make you whole